

How to Access Lynda.com with Your Library Card

All Ohioans can get FREE, unlimited access to Lynda.com with a library card from one of Ohio's 251 public library systems.*

What is Lynda.com?

Now owned by LinkedIn, Lynda.com has been the leading provider of online learning content for 20 years. Lynda.com has more than 6,600 courses, ranging from computer programming to project management including instruction on various computer software, programming languages, and business topics. The video courses are taught by industry experts and are designed for any skill level. Lynda.com also offers more than 50 different learning paths to help users stay ahead in their current job or change careers. Examples of learning paths include how to become a web developer, IT security specialist, project manager, or small business owner.

How Do I Get Access?

First, you'll need a library card from an Ohio public library. To find a public library in Ohio near you, please visit <https://oplin.org/fal/>

If you already have a card, please check to make sure it is current.

Now, you can access Lynda.com by logging in through your library's website with your library card number and 4-digit PIN.

After creating an account (which only requires your name and e-mail address), you can watch videos, create playlists, bookmark pages, download course files and obtain Certificates of Completion. Video tutorials can be viewed from any computer with an internet connection or from a mobile device with the Lynda.com app.

**Please note: Some of Ohio's public libraries already have links to Lynda.com on their websites. More are being added each day. Access will be fully available in every corner of the state this fall.*
